Okay, the above three are in Miami. I'm going to try sequential patterns as my source said most of those in there appear to be sequential. That might pop up some additional names and locations.

Alright. It's taken awhile, but I've located the below, which is a great starting place. Fortunately, a number of the people are in the Federal Detention Center downtown so it should be fairly straightforward to get to them. Several women are in Tallahassee. I also located folks in Louisiana and one in a private detention center in Texas. There's one in the list with a different release date who might not be with the group, but I kept it as it fell in the number sequence. Also, there appears to be an Eastern European name for an older woman in Tallahassee. I'm going to get this list inside in the hopes that it gives some comfort to the others and may trigger more names.

Thanks,

Jeanette

Approximately 15 percent of the Bureau's inmate population are confined in secure facilities operated primarily by private corrections companies and to a lesser extent by state and local governments, and in privately-operated community corrections centers. Contract facilities help the Bureau manage its population and are especially useful for meeting the needs of low security, specialized populations like sentenced criminal aliens. Staff of the Correctional Programs Division in Central Office provide oversight for privately-operated facilities.
